Cedar Acres Gladioli

"There is nothing in which God asks so little of us and gives so much as in the planting of a garden."

THE real and lasting beauty, the general satisfaction found in the gladiolus and its unrivalled effectiveness in both garden and home, make this flower each year more and more indispensable in every gardening scheme.

Much of the garden joy lies in its color combinations, its masses of single color, its contrast of two or many, in endless variety.

For the pink garden, we highly recommend Pink Wonder, Pink Perfection, Davbreak, Delice, Evelyn Kirtland, Mrs. Dr. Norton, Dawn and Halley, a favorite variety which should be in every garden because of its wonderful spike of salmon pink flowers. Large flowered lavender and vellow Gladioli are the dearest possessions of every hybridizer, and good varieties of these colors are very scarce. Lavender and mauve blooms of Cattleva, Nora, Conspicuous, and Mary Fennell, and the deeper blue of Baron Josef Hulot, remind one of orchids, and when planted or arranged with such vellows as Flora, Sunrise, or Yellow Prince, give an effect which is pure satisfaction.

White varieties are always in demand and no planting or decoration is quite complete without them. The new White Wonder and Albania are magnificent specimens of glistening white Gladioli of great size and substance. Older varieties, such as Lily Lehman and L'Immaculee are matches for contrast in the blue garden.

Not least is the artistry of form that may be achieved in gardens large and small, and the Gladiolus lends itself so well to any planting. In clumps along the hardy border, against a background of any green, the brilliant colors are supreme. In plantings with small growing annuals used as ground cover, edgings or the taller ones to give light and airy effects, the Gladiolus is at its best, for garden effect. Growing from a planting of snapdragons or salpiglossis, or from a bedding of verbena, phlox, or alyssum, these satisfying Gladioli are a neverending pleasure.

We are very glad to give suggestions for plantings of Gladioli, and for the annuals which grow so well with them.

After a careful and exhaustive study of varieties shown at numerous exhibits last summer we were convinced that all of the new varieties were not the best.

At the Gladiolus Show in Boston, acknowledged by everyone to be the finest exhibition of Gladioli ever staged, we noticed that in five representative classes first prizes were awarded to varieties long favored as the best in their color, and for every use.

For the conno—or the collector, all novelties have a great charm, but such varieties as Niagara, Crimson Glow, Panama, Pink Perfection, Mrs. Dr. Norton, Baron Hulot, and the fine lavenders, have not been surpassed.

In presenting our 1925 booklet, we are offering varieties which we consider the best of the newer productions. Our selection is made with great care, after studying each one as it blooms in our trial beds, and unless it stands the tests, judged for color, size and quality of flower and decorative possibilities, we do not list it.

As we look back over the years of hard work here at Cedar Acres, it is a source of great satisfaction to feel that we have had a part in the development of the Gladiolus, a development which has progressed with such tremendous strides. Never has this flower been so popular, never have such blooms been produced as at the present time.

Our seedlings have taken their place among the best, and with the completion of greenhouses now under construction, the scope of the experimental work at Cedar Acres will be increased and we shall be in a position to make important tests, the result of which we shall be very glad to give to the public.

Perennials and spring bulbs will be listed in our Fall Catalogue, a copy of which will be sent to all on our mailing list.

A careful study of varieties listed under "Named Varieties" will suggest many colors for both planting and cutting.

The small blooms of the Primulinus specie, just as it grows in South Africa, are now in great demand, and large plantings are made in the cutting garden, or in clumps in the hardy borders. These are quite the daintiest yellow blooms obtainable in midsummer.

We hope that Cedar Acres Gladioli may continue to grace your gardens, your friends' gardens, and every garden into which this magnificent bulbous flower has yet to be introduced.

B. Hammond Tracy.

VISITORS

are always welcome at Cedar Acres, and during the blooming season the fields present a sight that is well worth going miles to see.

Motor roads are laid out through the fields, giving opportunity to see the Gladioli in the different plantings. Visitors are very cordially invited to come to the showroom, where the blooms are shown in their proper arrangements and settings. Inspection of the storage building and shipping departments is of interest to visitors, and any information concerning the Gladiolus and its culture will be gladly given.

Spring Bulbs, Perennials and Gladioli for Forcing

Primulinus Hybrids

Our Hobby

The New Orchid Gladioli

The new race, the Primulinus Hybrids, about which so much is written, is truly the coming Gladiolus. Exquisite shades of all colors, from terra cotta, through bronze, copper, rose, pink, saffron, apricot, buff, a few lavenders, and down the color scale to white. Their beauty is hard to describe, but to see them is to want them, not by the bulb, but by the hundred. Smaller than the other types of Gladioli, the daintiness of form, and arrangement on the spikes, add to their decorative value. They are not found in many florists' shops, for they are not in demand by those who want quantity only. We have as a basis for our unqualified praise for the Primulinus Hybrids, the fact that almost every order for flowers or bulbs includes them. They are equally desirable for forcing.

From the mixtures of Primulinus Hybrids, one may select a vase of yellow, rose, apricot, orange or bronze blooms, but for those who are interested in a collection of named sorts, we are offering a selection which includes the best, among which will be found some colorings not in the mixtures.

The delicacy of coloring and the throat markings in all of these give each one an individual fascination, which words and phrases fail to describe.

Cultural Directions

"Spend as much time as you can in God's out of doors."

—Van Dyke

The Gladiolus is a flower of easy culture and does well in any soil, but should be planted in full exposure to the sun. They will do well planted in the hardy borders or in front of shrubbery. Many of the best varieties produce small bulbs, and in buying a mixture you will find it much better when the size of the bulbs varies to a considerable degree. In buying bulbs, do not always select the largest bulbs. You lose the cream of the stock offered. Many of the choicest varieties do not produce large bulbs; the large bulbs may prove to be "blind," past blooming age. Size is not virtue, but it is essential that the bulbs should be of blooming age, fully developed and healthy, rather than large and overgrown, punky and soft.

It must also be remembered that one who makes a specialty of producing can naturally give greater satisfaction to customers.

Soil should be well prepared in the early spring, with a good coating of agricultural lime and bone meal thoroughly worked into the soil, but fresh stable manure should be used only where the ground may be manured the previous fall and well worked over in the spring before planting.

The various ways in which the Gladiolus can be planted make it one of the most showy and attractive garden flowers. Planted in round, oblong, or square beds, planting bulbs from four to six inches apart, so that they may be weeded and hand-hoed, they will give a wealth of color not equalled by any other flower.

Plantings for cut flowers should be made in rows eighteen inches apart, with bulbs three inches apart in the row, covering from four to six inches, according to the size of the bulbs; press the earth firmly around each bulb. Care should be taken to plant the bulbs right side up, and deep enough so that the new bulb, which forms on top, will not be pushed too near the surface. For succession of bloom, plant from the time the ground can be worked until July 1.

After the spike begins to show, all weeds should be removed, and if the soil is kept thoroughly worked, watering will nardly be necessary; they are great drinkers, however, and respond quickly to water. Always water after sundown.

There is no finer garden flower, but the finest specimens are shown if the spike is cut when the first bud opens and allowed to develop in the house; every bud on stalk will open and the richest colorings result; this is also a benefit to the bulb. The flower-loving public must be educated to a willingness to cut the spikes when they have bloomed a little while in the garden, then to finish their development in the house. Nothing is more unsightly than a mass of ragged, betasseled Gladioli, when it is so easy to pick off the withered blooms.

In cutting the flower spikes, it is ruinous to cut the stalk where the flowers end. There must be some foliage to lend grace. Cut the spikes so as to leave two or three leaves on your bulb root, thus giving you a flower spike sometimes nearly four feet long, leaving plenty of strength for the bulb, and beauty for the decoration.

In shipping cut blooms of the Gladiolus, it is absolutely essential that they be shipped dry, after standing for a while in water.

A great many varieties do extremely well under glass, and any one having a greenhouse should by all means force some of those varieties marked with an asterisk, allowing from twelve to thirteen weeks from planting to blooming time, with a temperature of about fifty-five degrees, or in carnation beds.

The illustration shows the bulb as it looks when you dig it. The bulb you planted in the spring dies away and the new one forms on top, so that it is nearer the surface than the original planting.

Bulbs should be dug as soon as the foliage turns brown or is cut down by frosts; cut stalks close to the bulbs. If possible, allow to cure in the sun or in a cool, dry place, then, removing old corm, store in trays or baskets, in a temperature as near forty degrees Fahrenheit as possible.

The Modern Dahlia

Cedar Acres

THE Modern Dahlia has much to commend it to every garden, and the amateur may get a deal of satisfaction, even though they may not get the great size in blooms.

The culture of Dahlias appeals to the Amateur Gardener, but the failures reported lead one to feel that there is a possibility all are trying to grow the huge Exhibition Dahlias, shown at fall exhibits.

While these may appeal to the general public, it is generally conceded that these dahlias are the exotic product of expert culture, a result not often attained by those who enjoy moderation in their gardens, without the expenditure of so much time and money in the production of blooms which when cut must be propped up by sticks or wires to be of use.

With the recent revival of interest in the Dahlia, attention has been called to some of the good old varieties, forgotten by the faddist. Varieties which will always respond to your culture with fine blooms, fine flowers on stems which need no support and which have vitality enough to stand up more than a day.

For abundance of bloom, and general satisfaction, take notice of such varieties as Sylvia, Storm King, Oban, Mrs. Cassett, Clarabel, Maude Adams, Jack Rose, Edith and all the singles.

Notice also the list of Dainty Pompons

now in such demand.

We usually catalogue the Dahlia that shows itself in popular demand, but our ideal has been "a good all-round Dahlia," one that will show its merits in the home as well as in the garden.

We have large stocks of many others which we shall be glad to tell you about on application.

Kathryn Beach Tracy.

Cultural Hints

Dahlias prefer a light sandy soil, although it may be truthfully said that they do well almost anywhere.

Soil that is too heavy should be treated with coal ashes, wood ashes or lime, to lighten it.

Too much fertilizer produces leaf and stalk, and inferior flowers.

Cultivation and watering are of prime importance, especially cultivation until the plants are well up, then care should be taken not to disturb the small rootlets.

Plant any time from May 1 to late June, according to locality and danger of frosts.

Under ordinary conditions, they will bloom in from six to eight weeks.

Do not plant too early. Wait until the tubers begin to sprout and then you can tell right where to divide the clump in order to get single plant stalks. These are necessary for the best bloom.

Plant the bulb flat, never on end, sprout end up in trenches or in holes from six to eight inches deep.

Not all varieties make large bulbs and in the majority of cases a small bulb will give as good and sometimes better results than larger bulbs.

To those who have had trouble with stunted plants, caused by the cinch bug, we advise spraying with arsenate of lead, using much the same solution as used for fruit trees. Spray when plants are from one and one-half to two feet high.

Remove lower leaves from cut dahlia blooms, as they cause an acid condition in the water, and blossoms fade much quicker. Spraying is beneficial to cut blooms, as the flowers drink through their petals.

Harvest Dahlia bulbs soon after frosts have blackened the foliage. Cut off stalks and allow to dry not longer than two hours out of doors. Shake off loose soil and store in boxes or barrels, putting stalk end of clump down.

Do not store in sawdust or other substance. Some of the varieties which make very small tubers may be stored in dry sand, and kept in a dry place to prevent shriveling. Cover boxes with paper to exclude the air as much as possible.

Keep in temperature above freezing.

Hot-Water Treatment for Flowers

Pick your dahlias in the gloaming
And pick them with two pitchers at your side.
Plunge the stems in water boiling
And then in water cold as Arctic's tide.
Then place the brimming jars,
Out 'neath the laughing stars,
Till crimson morn unbars
The East, to let the daylight pass.
And thus—you'll find your dahlias last a week
But take them in while dew is on the grass.
